

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's innocence

- Read all of Job 29-31.
- What elements of Job's protestations of innocence strike you?
- Do you think that the wider world sees Christians as people who behave like this? Why/Why not?
- What aspects of Job's innocence do you feel you are guilty of not imitating?
- In what ways might the teaching of the New Testament enhance and focus this description of an innocent person?
- Job clearly doesn't believe that he is sinless (see for instance Job 31:33-34). How should we balance a commitment to avoid sin with a commitment to confess sin when we do it? What would an unbalanced attitude look like?
- If Job was a New Testament believer what would he have said which was different?
- What needs to change most in your life if you are to be a person who is confident that you are declared innocent before God?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's innocence

- Read all of Job 29-31.
- What elements of Job's protestations of innocence strike you?
- Do you think that the wider world sees Christians as people who behave like this? Why/Why not?
- What aspects of Job's innocence do you feel you are guilty of not imitating?
- In what ways might the teaching of the New Testament enhance and focus this description of an innocent person?
- Job clearly doesn't believe that he is sinless (see for instance Job 31:33-34). How should we balance a commitment to avoid sin with a commitment to confess sin when we do it? What would an unbalanced attitude look like?
- If Job was a New Testament believer what would he have said which was different?
- What needs to change most in your life if you are to be a person who is confident that you are declared innocent before God?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's innocence

- Read all of Job 29-31.
- What elements of Job's protestations of innocence strike you?
- Do you think that the wider world sees Christians as people who behave like this? Why/Why not?
- What aspects of Job's innocence do you feel you are guilty of not imitating?
- In what ways might the teaching of the New Testament enhance and focus this description of an innocent person?
- Job clearly doesn't believe that he is sinless (see for instance Job 31:33-34). How should we balance a commitment to avoid sin with a commitment to confess sin when we do it? What would an unbalanced attitude look like?
- If Job was a New Testament believer what would he have said which was different?
- What needs to change most in your life if you are to be a person who is confident that you are declared innocent before God?