

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's Friends

- How do Job's friends initially react to his suffering? (Job 2:11-13) Is such a reaction sufficient?
- What is good and true about Eliphaz's speech in Job 4? Is this a speech he should have made?
- Examine the rest of the friends speeches (especially their beginnings) by letting each group member examine one speech and considering only how their relationship with Job is developing.
- What is being exposed about the friends in these speeches?
- Are the reactions and attitudes of the friends something that we see today? In what ways might we be like the friends?
- If you have been a sufferer what has helped and what has not helped in the reaction of your friends?
- How does God's "friendship" with Job compare with the Job's friends? What difference does it make that we have now seen Jesus?
- How does this study affect:
  1. The kind of friend you want to be to others?
  2. Where you will look for support when you suffer?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's Friends

- How do Job's friends initially react to his suffering? (Job 2:11-13) Is such a reaction sufficient?
- What is good and true about Eliphaz's speech in Job 4? Is this a speech he should have made?
- Examine the rest of the friends speeches (especially their beginnings) by letting each group member examine one speech and considering only how their relationship with Job is developing.
- What is being exposed about the friends in these speeches?
- Are the reactions and attitudes of the friends something that we see today? In what ways might we be like the friends?
- If you have been a sufferer what has helped and what has not helped in the reaction of your friends?
- How does God's "friendship" with Job compare with the Job's friends? What difference does it make that we have now seen Jesus?
- How does this study affect:
  1. The kind of friend you want to be to others?
  2. Where you will look for support when you suffer?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Job's Friends

- How do Job's friends initially react to his suffering? (Job 2:11-13) Is such a reaction sufficient?
- What is good and true about Eliphaz's speech in Job 4? Is this a speech he should have made?
- Examine the rest of the friends speeches (especially their beginnings) by letting each group member examine one speech and considering only how their relationship with Job is developing.
- What is being exposed about the friends in these speeches?
- Are the reactions and attitudes of the friends something that we see today? In what ways might we be like the friends?
- If you have been a sufferer what has helped and what has not helped in the reaction of your friends?
- How does God's "friendship" with Job compare with the Job's friends? What difference does it make that we have now seen Jesus?
- How does this study affect:
  1. The kind of friend you want to be to others?
  2. Where you will look for support when you suffer?